Iguana Garden Friend?

Garden Friend? NO! Iguanas may look cool, but in Florida gardens, they're big trouble! These hungry lizards are an invasive species and love to munch on fruits, leafy greens, and just about anything we plant. They can quickly turn a thriving garden into a snack bar! At Urban Abundance, we use raised garden beds to help protect our plants and keep these plant-loving reptiles from helping themselves. So while iguanas are fun to spot, your garden is better off without them!
